EAST OF ASIA MAGAZINE. Vol. I. No. 3 , Shanghai : 'North China Herald'

A glance at the latest issue of this highclass Magazine disposes to a disquisition on the marvels of modern photography. How admirably does the camera reveal what the well-regulated mind wishes to see; how judiciously it keeps back what the gentle roader would fain leave undisclosed. Take as a notable instance an article by the Rev. C. Bone on the 'Floating Population of China,' an industrious, thrifty, and, with all their faults, an attractive section of the Chinese race. Highly-finished illustrations show many of these hardworking boat people in canals and creeks where their small craft lie 'like the scales on a fish.' The non-Chinese visitor to creek and canal will often find that his 'nose is in great indignation,' nor will the delicate tracery of the hamboo, the most graceful plant in nature, over-arching a magnified sewer reconcile the tourist from the west to the foctid efficien emitted by the black current that steals along underneath. Looking at these pictures of creeks and canals in which boat pe ple most do congregate, we observe the waters to be of the purest crystal. Such is the magic charm of photography which is

We suspectthat a strange glamour has been thrown over one of the recently opened Yangtsze ports that a visit to the place would disillutionize. We are not, however, like the FURNISHED HOUSE, with a fine ill-conditioned Mr Blotton, who, after Mr. Pickwick had removed with infinite care his precious find of a stone with a curious inscription, went to Cobham village at the wrong moment, and as a result of his visit asserted that the much-talked-of 2025 inscription had no legitimate interest for historian or antiquarian. Buddhist Monastery Life in China, MOP FLOORS, Nos. 12 and 14 Queen's by Mr A. Here, if at all, the dusty DAHAR LODGE, THE PEAK. Vacant world ' may be shaken off; and nature in her varying moods may minister to the best religious instincts. That mountain mon-HUMPHREY'S ESTATE & FINANCE asteries are the abode of much that is sengel and devilish is also a mounful truth. We are assured, however, that there remain communities of privata who still aim to keep the pure law of Buddha. Mr Hackmann seems to have lighted upon a monastery where the inmates live their lives for the most part industriously and peaceably. His article is pleas out reading. The paper by Mr A. Von Borch on the Imperial tombs west of Peking is a striking contribution to knowledge, and the most outstanding feature of the present issue. The tombs here treated of are those belonging to the present royal house, not those of the last dynasty, which are easily accessible and have been often described. The admirable pictures given of these tombs are likely to have permanent value. Architecturally, THE HONGKONG LAND INVEST the massive and withal quaint monumental buildings are vastly instructive. Morally, they are significant as the last and grandest efforts of filial piery directed to the emperors as an object of worship. If the rude forefathers of the hamlet' who sleep on the hill-ides adjucent to their former homes demand an ever-recurring tribute of reverent prostration, what is the measure of worship to be paid to the Son of Heaven, the father of the mil ions on whose behalf he in lifetime wor hips heaven? To this question the Ising tombs. grand solid monuments of departed great-

The days of mythological beliefs have gone. This is an era of science—a matter-of-fact age. The darkness of ignorance and superstition is giving way to the penetrating light of modern science—the revelation of facts. Modern science has discovered that the best medicinal cod liver oil, in its analysis, may be separated into two distinct parts-one the clarified oil ; the other, a mass of certain semi-solid substances, known as extractives. The oil is not materially different from other fixed oils and has little or no medicinal value. On the other hand, the extractives are peculiarly active, and the conclusion cannot be avoided that to the presence of these active principles cod liver oil owes its reputation as a remedy. No other oil has such a reputation. No other oil has such constituents. The extractives hold the same relation to cod liver oil that quining sustains to crude cinchona bark. They are the curative essence of cod liver oil. When taken as they may be freed from the vile; unnecessary oil, their curative value is greatly increased, for they are not hampered by the presence of the noxious fat.

Upon this scientific fact. Stearns' Wine of Cod Liver Oil is based. It represents all the ourative properties of the best cod liver oil in a vinous preparation. It also contains the best form of iron, making it also an ideal iron tonic. Wholesale from A. S. Watson E2 & Co., Ltd., Hongkong.

of the Hongkong Government we are strongly of opinion that a Municipal MR H. E. Pollock has addressed two Council in Hongkong would lead to in letters to us in reply to our criticism creased taxation without any material his proposal for the creation of a Muni cipal Council for Hongkong. He diswhich we live. agrees with us on certain points. We did not expect him to agree; and as he has failed to convince us that we were wrong we still hold to the opinion that a Municipal Council cannot be a success in Horgkong under existing conditions. Like all other advocates of the Municipal Council, Mr Pollock evades the principle of representation based on taxation. We must say that we agree with him that it would be unsafe and impolitic to allow the control of local government to pass into the hands of the Chinese. They are not yet, ripe for representative government, as we understand it in England or Scotland. may be argued that Shanghai and Sin gapore have Municipal Councils, and that the native taxpayers have no franchise; but the case of Hongkong is not analogous with either Shanghai or Sin gapore, and what it is safe to allow the Senitary Board to do under its present constitution it might be unwise to entrust to a Municipal Council elected or the lines of the Legislative Council, Mr Pollock replies to our remark about involved interests militating against freedom of individual action of Municipal Councillors by pointing to the public representatives on the Sanitary Board. Had he as intimate an acquaintance of the Board work of those gentlemen as Pony Measurement. we have he would have hesitated to hold them up as an argument in his garding the conferences between the Official favour. We have no desire to decry their work; some of them are dead and the Western India Turf Club at Poona others have left the Colony. Mr Osborne is a brilliant exception, and had the Board been blessed in its early days with public representatives like him is is not improbable—indeed, it is highly probable-that Hongkong would have been a more sanitary Colony than it is out in such a manner as to make him stand at the present, moment. Excellent unnaturally when doing so. As a matter work was done by individuals in times of fact there was perfect unanimity be-

MY NOTE BOOK.

By the Casual Critic.

This being that season of the year when the malarious 'skeeter' wags his warm foot in useless yearning for a speedy return to the torrid time of summer, paces his quarter deck on the foot rail of your bed, and casts at you long looks of solicitous fondness. tempered by a holy and wholesome fear of the slipper and pillow his young life has taught him to dread, a few words of wisdom and counsel may be swallowed with advantage along with the little green fly, who, as he drops into your consommé or curry, murmurs : 'Autumn and I are here again.

And first let me take by the hand the young tenderfoot, who, fresh from the unsophisticated West has come here to show us how we should manage things. Upon their first acquaintance, the little green fly and he may come to words, perhaps to blows. For the grown's sake-no, the human person's. I should have said,-I hope not. It will do no good. An instance of the truth of this assertion was given to me the other evening. At the table which I bless with my sparkling dinner was being served to twenty of my wondering admirers and a brand new Western sat, sniffing the air with another air of his own, which I presume he thought the graceful sarcasm of a silent superiority, He said nothing until his soup arrived, and with it some twenty green-winged vedettes, They hopped around, their little wings flapping, their little feet moving in sidelong antics, and their bright eyes seeming to say: 'We have just dropped in on a friendly call. Howdy do! Ain't the weather quite delightful!' One more forward than the rest took a flying start and dropped gently into the clear turtle. That settled the Western. In language unprimable, he addressed an exhortation to the innocent causes of his mental and the green-winged army, augmented by a wasp or two and a couple of mosquitoes curiosity to the scope of war. In undisguised horror Mr Fresh-frein-the-west jumped up from his chair, seized the nearest decanter and hurled it in the teeth of the advancing foc. His fury, however, availed him not. On the contrary, it served but to Incense the little enemy, and after endeavouring in vain to capture three courses. he retired, utterly vanquished and crestfallen. Green flies loss, a dozen drowned and several missing wings; Fresh-from-the plates, a torn cloth, and dyspepsia. Moral: If you would save yourself ant-ticks, let the little fly bee.

Shades of Avon! Shakespeare, I hear, is going to be on the 'bust' at Elsinore. Still, I pray you, tectotallers, be not alarmed. The Bard has not made up his mind to doff his dusty grave-clothes and do a razzle in Deamark. It is nothing more than that a fund has been opened by the Danes for the erection of a bust of Shakespeare at Elsinore, the scene of the great dramatist's Hamlet.

Some one has been saying that there is no wit in Hongkong. Don't you believe it., The other day I strolled into the Puisne Judge's court to hear the lawyers talk. Mr Hays was on his feet, and the learned Judge was putting the question: 'Is your client a man or a woman ?' 'I'm not sure which, my lord,' returned the advocate. 'Is the person alive or dead, then queried the judge. And the court fairly shook with laughter-when the lawyer blandly told his lordship, 'I think he's dead, The wave of smusement still flickered round the four walls of the halls of Summery Jurisdiction when Mr Hays explained that the person who instructed him was a man, but he believed the name in the summor was that of a woman. The man had died. So the judge ordered that the dead man should be joined in the legal process.

I have before me a letter signed 'Briton,' in which some misguided person protests against the toleration of the term Fan Kuri in our Courts of Law, He says this phrase of contempt was flung yesterday under the very nose of the Chief Justice and he only smiled, instead of ordering the insolent heathen a sound whipping. THE YARN MARKET.

In their report dated 24th inst.; Messre Cawasice, Pallaujee and Co. write:-

Since the issue of our last circular dated the 10th instant, owing to the continued absence of rain in the interior and the disturbed condition of the consuming districts and the total failure of the rice crop. our Yarn Market for the local trade has remained dull and depressed, and were it not for the large demand from Shanghai, prices would have dropped about $3 to $4 per bale. Largo purchases to the extent of about 15,400 bales were made from the Chinese Dealers, who were only too glad to part with their past holdings of very high prices even at sacrifices of $5 to $7 per bale on their previous purchases. It is also reported that the foreign importers have shipped to Shanghai out of their holdings about 18,000 bales on their account of unsaleable goods. With very large offtakes and small arrivals, our unsold stock has been reduced to a great extent, whilst sold but uncleared goods in the hands of the Chinesa may be estimated at about 18,000 bales. Notwithstanding such small stock and considering that this is the busicst season of the year, our market locally shows no improvement, and it closes quiet but steady. The German Colonies.

The Berlin correspondent of the Standard writes :- In reference to the discussions that have recently taken place in Council, extend over a period not exceeding the German Press, the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung publishes a semi-official paper on the best means of the recruiting suitable Civil officials for the German Colonies. The report that a special staff of Colonial Officials was to be created is described as premature. Experiments. however, are to be made in this direction next year; but, generally, the selection of officials for the Colonies will remain as at present. Young men of ability, who combine a sound education and special training with good health will, therefore, it is said, still find plenty of opportunities to coas extraordinary folly. After the first year, the salary may be raised by yearly Street-Office Hours 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. increments of from four hundred to five hundred marks.
